

Oxford Psychiatry Autumn School

8th – 10th September 2014

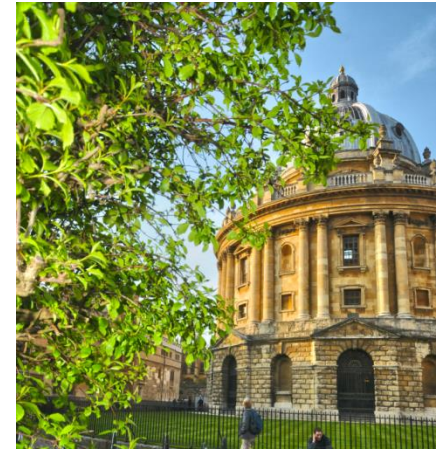

Considering psychiatry? Interested in an academic career? Want to find out more about Oxford as a city, as a place to train clinically, and as the site of world-class research and research facilities in psychiatry and neuroscience?

Come to our Autumn School!

The University Department of Psychiatry, in conjunction with Oxford Health NHS Foundation Trust, is holding an Autumn School, for UK clinical medical students and foundation doctors, this September.

With a mix of short lectures from Oxford researchers, visits to research sites across the City, and small group sessions with junior and senior researchers, it's not to be missed. Apply now: there are just 30 places available.

Applications are invited NOW, via a short application form.

Places will be allocated competitively and include accommodation free of charge, but a refundable attendance deposit will be required.

For more information, including a programme and application form, please email

autumnschool@psych.ox.ac.uk

Oxford Health

NHS Foundation Trust

