

The Oxford Psychological Medicine Research group (PMR), led by Professor Michael Sharpe, is looking for trainees to join our clinical research team. Trainees who have MRCPsych but have not yet been offered a substantive consultant post are eligible for the posts. You will work with us for 1, 2 or 3 years and will receive training and supervision in clinical research methods from Prof Michael Sharpe and Dr Jane Walker.

Our research focuses on understanding the psychological needs of medical patients, developing new psychological and multi-component interventions, and conducting high quality clinical trials of these. We are currently planning innovative studies in the areas of liaison psychiatry services, depression in people with cancer, psychological aspects of palliative care, and improving the psychological care delivered to patients in acute medical settings.

We are looking for trainees who are interested in gaining experience in a clinical research environment. There are opportunities to study for an MD or PhD and we would encourage trainees interested in doing a higher degree to consider a Wellcome Trust or other fellowship with us

<http://www.medsci.ox.ac.uk/graduateschool/doctoral-training/programme/biomedical-and-clinical-sciences>

If you would like to discuss the possibility of working with us please contact jane.walker@psych.ox.ac.uk.